My god. If you people in the courts let Microsoft get away with the monopolization of the entire personal computer market, and fail to show Microsoft that they cannot do illegal activities without paying a cost, then the future of the Personal Computer is doomed to continue running poorly written and poorly designed software for years to come.

Lest you be remembered as the people who could have done something about this issue, and failed to do so.

Please please do something to stop Microsoft from further screwing of the market.

Mark Stephen
